

Mikkel Stahlschmidt

PhD student at the Department of Economics, University of Copenhagen, and the ROCKWOOL Foundation Interventions Unit.

University of Copenhagen and ROCKWOOL Foundation Interventions Unit

Website: <https://econmikkel.github.io> | Email: mis@rfintervention.dk

Google Scholar: <https://scholar.google.com/citations?user=VfLh5XEAAAAJ>

ORCID: <https://orcid.org/0009-0007-2392-6470>

This one-page overview is intended for non-academic visitors who want a quick sense of my work.

Main themes: migration and integration, survey methods, and applied policy evaluation.

Journal articles

No items listed yet.

Working papers and projects

How Initial Accommodation Shapes Refugee Integration: Quasi-Experimental Evidence from the Ukrainian Displacement Crisis in Denmark

Sudden displacement crises strain reception systems and require rapid expansion of refugee accommodation beyond conventional channels.

What do we gain (and lose) from responsive questions? Comparing open-ended survey questions with adaptive probes from an AI interviewer

This study examines how interface- and adaptiveness changes the quality of data generated from semi-structured interviews.

The Moral Salience of Deservingness in Evaluative and Experiential Moral Reasoning: A Multilevel AI-Interview Experiment

This project examines whether deservingness considerations become more morally salient when individuals reflect on a completed act of helping (...)

Networks, Neighborhoods, and New Beginnings: Evidence on Refugee Labor Market Entry from Local Housing Allocation in Sweden

FAKE TEST PAPER - Refugee reception systems often assign newly arrived individuals to local housing under severe capacity constraints, with la...

Non-academic work

No items listed yet.